

PRESS RELEASE

07 April 2021

THE COVID-19 VACCINATION CENTRE WEINFELDEN HAS STARTED OPERATIONS

On 6 April 2021, the Covid-19 vaccination centre in Weinfelden started operations as the third and largest vaccination centre in the Canton of Thurgau. More than 2 000 people can be vaccinated per day on 14 vaccination lines. As the operator of the Thurgau vaccination centres, the Hirslanden Group continues to assume health policy responsibility in the fight against the coronavirus and is actively involved in the Swiss vaccination strategy.

In addition to the vaccination ship MS Thurgau and the centre in Frauenfeld, the third and largest Covid-19 vaccination centre in the Canton of Thurgau opened in Weinfelden on the Tuesday after Easter. It is considerable in size with 14 vaccination lanes. In the former industrial hall on Tannenwiesenstrasse, more than 2 000 people can be vaccinated per day – vaccine capacity permitting. That is 5 per cent of the Thurgau population per 7-day week in Weinfelden alone.

The concept of the large-scale vaccination centre was based on previous experience. Thanks to the constant monitoring of the processes, improvements could be implemented in consultation with the canton, for example in the vaccine preparation process. Good coordination between all those involved is essential. The scheduling of staff depends on vaccine availability and is therefore challenging. However, due to the broad support of professionals and administrative staff from the population, it is possible to react to changes in vaccine availability at short notice.

Registration and booking of an appointment for vaccination at the Covid-19 Vaccination Centre Weinfelden take place via the registration portal of the Canton of Thurgau. This is linked on the website of the Office of Public Health (<https://gesundheit.tg.ch/aktuelles/covid-19-impfung-kanton-thurgau.html/11590>).

Hirslanden is actively involved in the Swiss vaccination strategy and the fight against the coronavirus through the rapid establishment and safe, high-quality operation of vaccination centres, repeat testing and the inpatient and intensive care treatment of affected Covid-19 patients.

As a healthcare provider throughout Switzerland, the Hirslanden Group offers integrated medical care along the entire life course, the so-called continuum of care. This includes prevention, medical diagnosis, counselling, therapy and aftercare. The focus is no longer only on the patient, but on the person.
